BRITAIN PRACTICALLY CERTAIN TO INCREASE HER AIR FORCE

CHINA AS A POTENTIAL WORLD MARKET

Could Use Glut Of Idle Capital.

MR. QUO TAI-CHI'S SPEECH AT LIVERPOOL

London, To-day.

"Although Democracy is getting less popular, responsible leaders in China have pinned their faith to Democracy as practised in Great Britain and the United States," stated the Chinese Minister to London Mr. Quo Tai-chi, speaking at Liverpool, last night.

China was working towards that form of Government, he said, and he asked other nations to be patient with them.

Nowadays, no country compared with China as a clearly indicated channel in which the circulation of the world's commerce could be re-started, as China was compact and was the best immediate purchasing position in the undeveloped markets of the world. China could also use the world's glut of idle capital, he said. — Reuter.

YOUNG MARSHAL RETURNING

Chang May Settle
In Nanking.

"NO ATTACHED TO ANY PARTY"

London, To-day.

Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang is leaving here for France, and will later visit Italy, within the next few days. After a short stay on the Continent he is returning to China.

In an interview with Reuter, he said that he was abandoning his intention of visiting Russia. He would go first to Shanghai and then to Nanking.

He was returning primarily to attend to private affairs, but at the same time, he desired to ascertain the Chinese Government's viewpoint in the present difficulties.

If he was able to help to smooth out the situation he would do so. He stressed the fact, however, that he was not attached to any party or faction. — Reuter.

CLOSE CONTACT BETWEEN BRITAIN AND ITALY

Sir E. Drummond Sees II Duce
On Disarmament

London, To-day.

The Italian Premier, Signor Mussolini, and Sir Eric Drummond, British Ambassador to Rome after a conversation on Disarmament, lasting for one hour, agreed upon the advisability of Great Britain and Italy maintaining close contact.

French and German representatives also held discussions with the Italians, and all agreed that little progress was possible until proposals had been received from Germany. — Reuter.

U.S. RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received November 29, 10.12 a.m.)

New York, To-day.

An unconfirmed report states that the New York bankers may float an issue of Soviet bonds.

According to the reported bankers believe that a substantial loan could be sold here if Moscow would offer some kind of hedge against dollar depreciation.

It is rumoured that the Federal Reserve will shortly enter into correspondent relations with the Soviet State Bank. — United Press, per S.C. Gold Bar Co.

U.S. GANGSTERS ACQUITTED

Kidnapping Charge
Fails.

ARMED GUARDS SURROUND
COURT-HOUSE

St. Paul, Minnesota, To-day.

Armed guards surrounded the packed court house here yesterday, when a jury acquitted four gangsters, led by Roger Tuohy, who were accused of kidnapping William Hamm, Junior, a young, wealthy brewer, in June.

Hamm was released a few days later, after ransom, the amount of which was not stated, was paid.

The same gang was indicated recently in Chicago for the alleged kidnapping of the financier, Jacob Factor, last July. — Reuter.

LIBERALS' SMALL VOICE

Amendment Heavily
Defeated.

London, To-day.

The House of Commons, by 434 votes to 58, yesterday rejected the amendment to the Address-in-Reply, made by Sir Herbert Samuel's Liberals, regretting that the Speech from the Throne did not indicate an effective policy to promote the restoration of world trade and national development.

The Address was adopted by 427 votes to 54. — Reuter.

The Labour Party's amendment to the Address-in-Reply, condemning the Government's handling of affairs at home and abroad, was rejected on Monday, by 424 votes to 53.

STABILISATION AT

INVESTORS SWITCH FROM BONDS
TO STOCKS

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received November 29, 10.12 a.m.)

Chicago, To-day.

Mr. Harland Allen, the eminent economist, yesterday said that it was questionable whether the "hard money" advocates would be able to rally sufficient strength to change the United States monetary policy.

Professor W. Sprague's fears that the undermining of confidence would bring inflation, were well-founded, he declared, but America must recognise that the President's policy sees that the foremost factor in the continuance of the depression is too much debt and interest charges, which partially explained the inadequate purchasing power hindering the rise of commodity prices since July.

Mr. Allen stated that stabilisation between 50 and 60 would give enormous impetus to most bonds and would help railroads and utilities. If, however, it was stabilised at or near 60 it would probably depress many raw materials.

No stabilisation could last 60 days without a concurrent agreement with the leading foreign powers on new parties, he declared.

France may soon be obliged to leave the gold standard or to adopt lower parity, he said.

It was noteworthy that the ultra-conservative investors were switching from bonds to the best stocks. — United Press, per S.C. Gold Bar Co.

U.S.-JAPANESE RELATIONS

"Armament Race Must Be Limited."

MR. HIROTA'S PROPOSALS

Tokyo, To-day.

The so-called Japanese-American friendly meeting under the Presidency of Mr. Koki Hirota, Japanese Foreign Minister, was held at the Japanese Foreign Office on Monday afternoon, according to a delayed message.

Mr. Hirota, addressing the meeting, spoke at length on the necessity of breaking the existing Japanese-American deadlock. He suggested that the following problems should be solved before the relations between the two nations could be placed on a sound basis:

- (1) Effective means to be found to limit fortifications of the Pacific islands.
- (2) Friendly relations of the two countries to be strengthened through diplomatic, economic and cultural channels.
- (3) Limitation of the armament race. — Central News Agency.

Favourable Outlook On New York Stock Markets

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received November 29, 10.12 a.m.)

The outlook is still favourable, due to bullish business news, but monetary considerations still dominate the stock market.

IMPERIAL CO-OPERATION IMPERATIVE

Mr. Bruce's Plea For Resolute Policy.

OTTAWA AN ISOLATED INCIDENT

London, To-day.

The High Commissioner for Australia, the Rt. Hon. Mr. Stanley Bruce, speaking in London yesterday, expressed the view that a strong resolute policy of Imperial co-operation was at present a paramount necessity.

He said a start towards such a policy was made at Ottawa. His complaint was that Ottawa had been treated as an isolated incident and not as the laying of a foundation upon which would be built a great structure of inter-Imperial trade.

Britain with her relatively large population had a valuable home market, great supplies of capital and unrivalled experience. She had, however, no great resources. The Dominions and dependent Empire had the resources but not the home markets, capital or experience.

With a policy of financial and economic co-operation, the British nation could face the difficult conditions of the next few years with confidence, he said.

JAPANESE COMPETITION IN TEXTILE TRADE

British M.P.'s Show
Impatience.

GOVERNMENT'S ASSURANCE OF ACTION

London, To-day.

Several House of Commons members at yesterday's session showed impatience over the Government's alleged inactivity concerning Japanese competition in the cotton, rayon, woollen and worsted trades.

The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Walter Runciman, explained that the Government was fully aware that industries other than the textiles were affected by Japanese competition.

The whole question was receiving the most careful consideration, he said.

However, it was clearly desirable, in the first place, to see what was likely to be the outcome of the present discussions with Japanese industrialists with regard to cotton and rayon goods.

The House need not be apprehensive, he said. The Government was moving all the time and promised every assistance to woollen industrialists if they made similar representations as had the leaders of the textile industries. — Reuter.

"MUST AGREE OR FIGHT"

Manufacturer Urges
Action.

"JAPANESE HAVE THOUGHT IT ALL OUT"

London, To-day.

"We must agree or fight," declared Brigadier-General Sir William Alexander, the wartime Director of the Ministry of Munitions, speaking at the dinner in London, last night, of the National Union of Manufacturers, of which he is President.

He advocated the formulation of a national trade policy to deal with Japanese competition, and urged the Government to deal with the problem immediately on business lines and with the help of business men.

"We must know what terms we can offer and what terms we can accept. The Japanese have obviously thought it all out," he declared. — Reuter.

Mr. O. F. Ribeiro, aged 58, principal of Ribeiro and Company, was admitted to Kowloon Hospital yesterday suffering from slight injuries to his legs, received when he was knocked down in Nathan Road by private car No. 2856, driven by Kwong Ming.

WEAKNESS IN THE AIR

BRITAIN A
FIFTH-RANK
AIR POWER

10 NEW SQUADRONS
FOR MINIMUM.

VULNERABILITY OF LARGE
TOWNS TO BOMBERS

London, To-day.

Both Houses of Parliament will debate to-day on Britain's air weakness.

There will be an urgent demand that Great Britain no longer remains a fifth rank air Power and there is a serious suggestion that 10,000 machines could and should be provided at the cost of six battleships.

It is practically certain that immediate measures will be taken to form 10 new squadrons so as to raise the strength to the 52 squadrons which was laid down as the minimum 10 years ago, but were never ordered.

Since Germany withdrew from the Disarmament Conference and the League of Nations with the consequent spread of war nerves, a campaign is being conducted in the press and on the platform emphasising the vulnerability of practically all the large towns to long-range bombers, and the fact that London could be bombed by machines from every European country and which could return to their bases without refuelling. — Reuter.

SHANGHAI AIR SERVICE.

Six Passengers Make Trip To Canton.

Canton, To-day.

The China Aviation Corporation's plane, No. 17, arrived here from Shanghai, yesterday evening, with six passengers.

The plane, the first to make the trip since the Corporation's giant amphibian crashed at Chau San Island, on Friday last, left Shanghai for the south yesterday morning and passed Amoy at 8.50 p.m. — Central News Agency.

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION

BEAUTY OF WINTER FABRICS.

Velvets And Metal Tissues.

HEAVY CREPES NEVER MONOTONOUS

Fashion revivals owe much of their charm to the beauty of the winter fabrics. First among luxury fabrics is the great velvet family in black or old-world shades such as bronze, green, mulberry, wine and plum colours, which are always very becoming.

Uncrushable Tissues

Lames and satins are important, with all the variety in uncrushable metal-tissues and heavy silk crepes. Among other rich fabrics are moire, faille and taffeta, also peau-de-peche (a sort of dull silk with a wool back) and tricot-de-sole. The latter is used for quiet dinner frocks and is a kind of knitted silk, very fine, and useful to put on early in the afternoon and dine in after.

The heavy crepe and charmeuse, either shining or dull-faced, are the most practical because they do for so many functions and at all seasons. Their range, moreover, can be treated in so many ways that they never become monotonous.

HANDKERCHIEF CAP

Attractive And Simple In Design.

A pretty shoulder cape may be made from two large silk handkerchiefs, one patterned and one plain, or in two effectively contrasting colours. They should be about 18 inches square.

All you have to do is to sew them together by one of the corners of each handkerchief. These should overlap so that one point forms a triangle on the under square. This comes in the middle of the back. A point then hangs down on each arm, and the remaining two are knotted together in front.

cold water containing a little lemon juice or vinegar for about 1 hour. Next cut them into slices or halves and cook in slightly salted water and milk till tender. Pour off the liquid and add enough white sauce to cover the artichokes, season to taste with salt, pepper and grated nutmeg, and cook for about another 20 minutes. A little chopped parsley may, if liked, be added. Dish up and serve hot.

Veal Quenelles

1/2 lb. lean veal; 3/4 oz. butter; 1/2 oz. flour; 2 tablespoons of stock or milk; 1/2 a beaten egg; salt and pepper to taste. Chop up the veal and pass it twice through a mincing machine. Melt the butter, stir in the flour, add the stock and cook until it leaves the sides of the pan quite clean. Pound this panada and the veal in a mortar till quite smooth, season to taste and rub through a fine wire sieve. Next mix well with the well beaten egg. Shape into quenelles with a dessertspoon and poach in salted stock. Serve with tomato sauce.

TRANSFORMATION BY CHANGES OF FUR

Cape Effects From Clever Cut.

SCARVES THAT CHANGE INTO JABOTS

Three-quarter swagger coats in fur, and fur coats which are longer, but which have loose hanging backs, are among the newest models.

Then there are Raglan sleeves; and yokes cleverly set so that they make sleeves appear to be cut low on the shoulder. There is little of the epaulet and much more of the cape effect.

Fox collars are lower. They give a sense of width, but delicately so; there is nothing "huddled looking," but instead a cosy and altogether a fetching appearance about them.

Scarves are easily thrown back, or as quickly tied round the neck; and they have flattened three-cornered ends, which make them into jabots or cravats when tied in front.

Some are secured at the back of the coat collar; others are completely detachable.

Epaulet Capes

Little epaulet capes, at one great London showing, were detachable, in silver fox; and could be worn over velvet afternoon gowns, over a handsome collarless, full-length black American broadtail coat, or with an evening frock for dining out.

Sleeves were very attractive. One handsome broadtail coat had a little lantern puff sleeve with pulled-out points, above the elbow, and was then tight-fitting; another had fine handrun tufts at the top of the shoulder, giving the lowest line in a very subtle fashion.

"MOTHER, I'VE GOT A HEADACHE!"

Significant words these, and not to be neglected, for as every mother knows, headache may be one of the first symptoms of far more serious trouble.

But in the vast majority of cases headache in a child simply indicates a temporary derangement of the stomach or bowels, for which condition all that is necessary to set matters right is a little dose of Baby's Own Tablets, the simplest and speediest corrective of digestive or intestinal congestion in the very young.

Baby's Own Tablets may be administered with perfect confidence to even the most delicate infant in arms, for they are guaranteed to be absolutely pure and safe. Their same time they sweeten the stomach, check diarrhoea if present, allay teething pains, ease croup or cold, and thus relieved and comforted the ailing little one speedily drops off into natural restful slumber, from which it awakens well, happy and hungry. ### BRIDGE NOTES

Contract Bridge. BY ANN VAUGHAN

In contract bridge it is often optional what response one shall make to partner's bid. It is most important that the hand should be carefully studied and a response given which will convey the clearest idea possible to partner of the strength and distribution of the hand. After the value of the combined hands, and the distribution of the respective hands are located as near as possible, a choice of the best suit must be determined. In a previous article, I brought out the fact that where each hand holds four cards of one of the bid suit, and one of the hands holds five or six of another suit, the suit with the four cards in each hand will usually bring the best results as trumps.

The reason for this, of course is that in the ease of the long trump suit, there is no chance of discarding worthless cards, while in the ease of the four card suits, trumps can be exhausted and losing tricks discarded on the long side suit. A very good illustration of this point was found in one of the hands dealt at the Cathay Mansions duplicate bridge club last Tuesday night.

Illustration

The hand was as follows.

North:—
S—K
H—9 8 6 5
D—A K 10 9 7 6 5
C—6

West:—
S—Q 10 8 7
H—7 4 2
D—8
C—Q 7 6 4 2

East:—
S—A J 6 2
H—Q J
D—J 4 3 2
C—K 9 8

South:—
S—9 5 4 3
H—A K 10 3
D—Q
C—A J 10 3

If the contract ends in diamonds, there is no possible way of discarding the losing spade and East must necessarily take a diamond trick. If hearts are trumps a little alarm or a grand slam can be made depending on the original lead.

If a spade is lead, the ace of spades will be lost. However, if a club is led, the play will be as follows: Take with the ace. Unblock by leading the queen of diamonds. Lead a club and trump. Lead a low diamond and trump. being sure to trump with the 10 as the nine must serve as a re-entry into North's hand. Three rounds of trumps ending in North's hand with the nine. The diamonds are now all good and a grand slam is made. If the singleton diamond were led the result would be the same.

Important Point

A very important point in the play of contract bridge is knowing when to give tricks away. Giving a trick away in the early part of the game will often net a return of two or three extra tricks in the end. It is only by learning to plan the hand that this type of play is possible. When dummy is first exposed declarer must study the combined hands and determine where the tricks contracted for, are coming from.

If there is a shortage, it is nearly always necessary to give a trick or two away in order to establish some long suit. The following

OLDEST PIECE OF WOOD IN WORLD.

Relic At Chicago Fair.

Chicago.

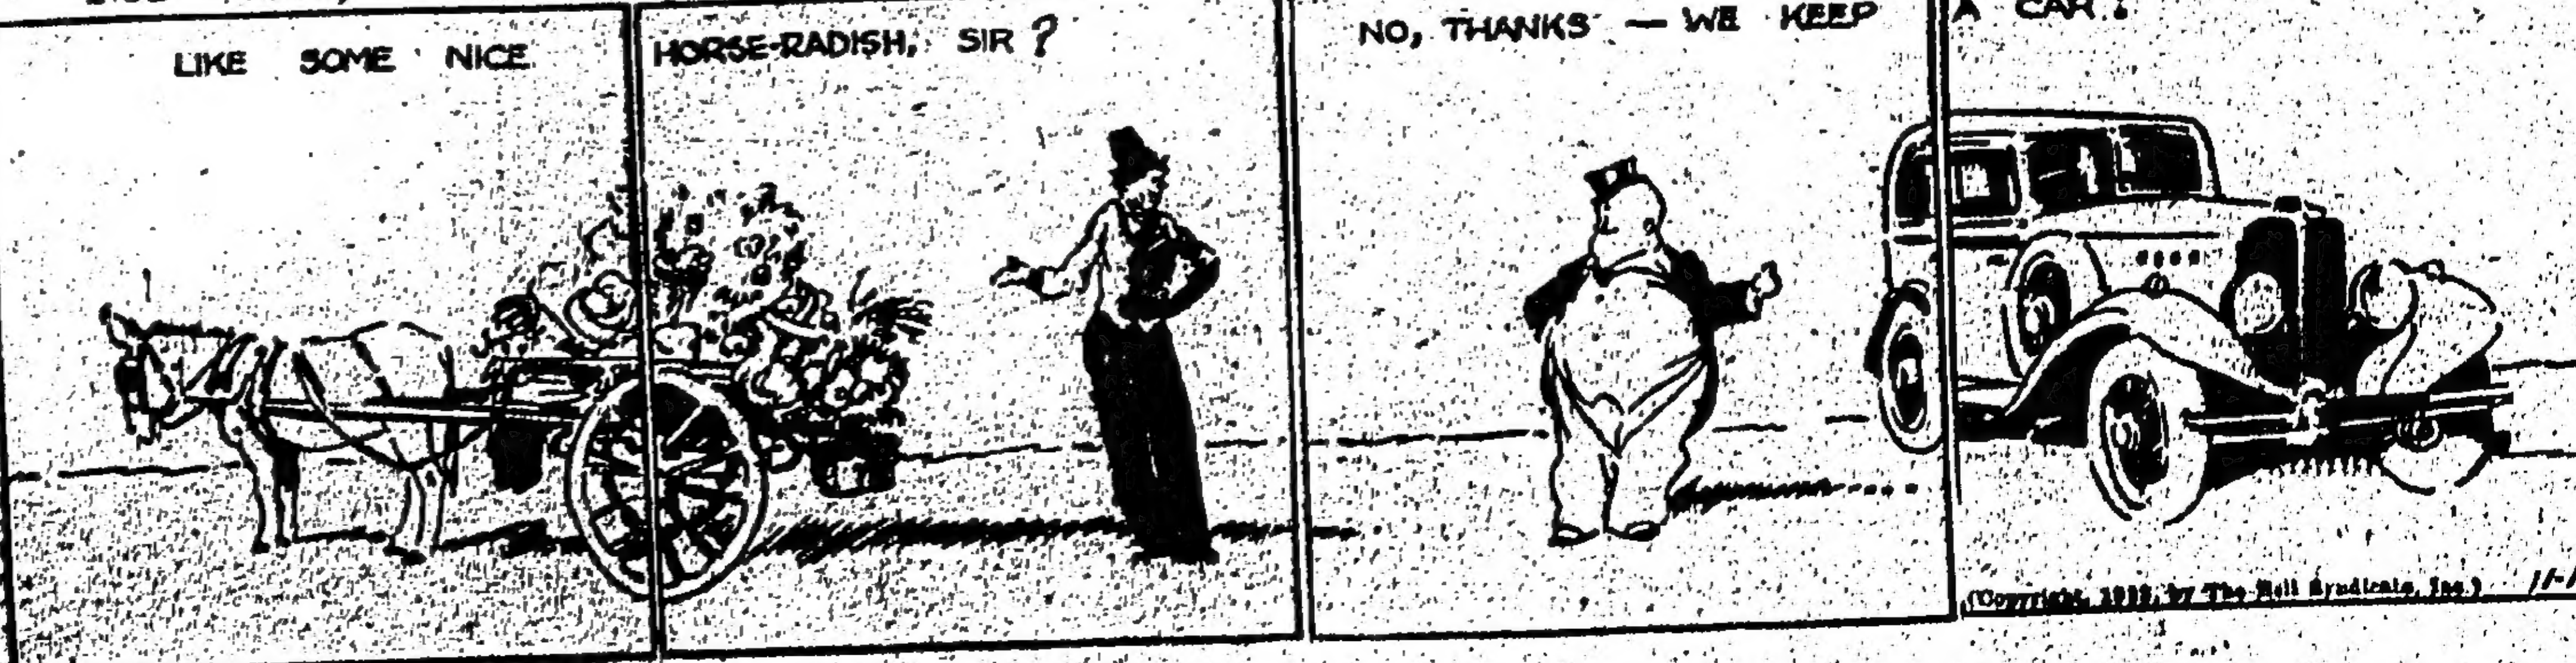

What is said to be the oldest piece of unpetrified wood above the ground is on exhibit at the Southern Cypress log cabin at the Chicago World's Fair.

It is Cypress, about 24 inches long, eight to ten inches long, eight to ten inches thick and tapered at each end.

A workman found it while digging the Philadelphia subway in 1931. Government geologists examined it, pronounced it pre-glacial, and estimated its age at 100,000 years.—Reuter.

Club To Meet Saints

SOUTH CHINA CHALLENGED BY STRONG NAVY XI

Sensations Anticipated on Saturday.

CHAMPIONS STRENGTHENED

(By OUTSIDE LEFT.)

THIS SATURDAY'S FIRST DIVISION LIMELIGHT WILL AGAIN BE CENTRED ON TWO GAMES THE CLUB V. ST. JOSEPH'S AT CAROLINE HILL AND THE NAVY V. SOUTH CHINA GAME ON THE RAILWAY GROUND IN KOWLOON.

Last week's crop of results certainly carried more than their share of sensations and I shall not be in the least bit surprised if Saturday does not produce further sensations.

The big game of the day will be the St. Joseph's v. Club encounter at Caroline Hill and if one is to judge on last week's form, one can look forward to a first-class game.

It is a curious coincidence that both the Saints and the Club were the ones to cause last week's surprises and that both should meet the following week.

Club Strengthened

The Saints are fielding the same team which defeated the Lincolns by 4 goals to 1 at Sookunpoo last week, while the Club will probably be strengthened by the return of Robertson to the right half position and of Skinner to the pivot position.

I fear that unless the Club can improve on the right wing, their attack this Saturday will fall for in A. V. Gosano, E. Strange and Howe will have one of the fastest players in the League to combat.

Last Saturday the Club very successfully exploited the pass down the centre for a clear run for either Howe or Strange, but on Saturday this will have to be perfected from the right as well as the left wing if they are to penetrate the Saint's defence.

Fowler's injury has not been given a chance as the result of his playing against South China and I think he should be rested in favour of the reserve winger, Fisher, who, although not up to First Division standard, will probably be of more use than a possible passenger.

What the Club defence will have to watch will be the Saints' right wing combination of B. Gosano, A. Ward, and the leader of the forwards, David Leonard.

The latter is a dashing type of forward and once he gets into his stride he will be hard to stop. In the other game of importance the Navy met South China on the Kowloon F. C. ground.

SCRATCH CLUB TEAM HOLD ARGYLLS

YEOMAN PLAYS UP TO HIS INTERPORT STANDARD

SOLDIERS UNLUCKY NOT TO WIN

(By OUTSIDE LEFT.)

A very evenly contested game of soccer was yesterday seen on the Club ground when a team from the detachment of Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders shared four goals with a scratch Club eleven.

ON the run of the play the Club were lucky to secure a draw, although it must be said that the Club gave a bustling display which was responsible for the poor shooting of the Argylls' forwards.

YEOMAN, the visitor's pivot, a former Hong Kong Interport centre-half played an outstanding game and fed his forwards with perfect long ground passes.

IN their first game in the Colony the Argylls beat Kowloon by 4 goals to 3 but lost to the Lincolns by four clear goals on Thursday last.

The Argylls' halves were very tricky on the ball and were hard to get past, a long pass by the Club's halves over the slippery surface of the ground being the only means of piercing their defence.

NAVY SOCCER LEAGUES

Kent Lead Premier Division.

SUBMARINES HEADING JUNIOR TABLES

(By OUTSIDE LEFT.)

H.M.S. Kent are favourites for the First Division of the China Fleet Football League, which is now in full swing.

In the First Division the Kent leads the Eagle by five points, while the 4th Submarine Flotilla are close on the heels of the Eagle with four points though with one game in hand.

In Section 2, the Bruce have the number of entries, it has been thought best to make two sections, the Keppel leading in Section 1 with one win and three draws and the sloop, Cornflower, next in order.

In Section 2, The Bruce have been most successful with four wins from their four games. They will probably win the Divisional honours.

The Third Division, the 4th Submarine Flotilla hold a two points advantage over the Kent and look like being division champions this year.

FUNG KING CHEONG will probably play for South China against the Navy on Saturday.

Fung May Play Against The Saints

PAU KA PING BACK BETWEEN THE STICKS

S. China Fixture With Lincolns

(By OUTSIDE LEFT.)

SOUTH China have suggested December 17 as the date for their "away fixture" against the Lincolns, and are now awaiting confirmation of the date from the Football Association.

I understand that the Lincolns are not in favour of this, and want to play the game off during mid-week.

South China have replied that owing to the falling light at 6 o'clock each evening, the game would have to start at about 4.15 and none of their players would be able to obtain the necessary leave for this.

I have just heard from Mr. Chau, Football Secretary of South China, that Ip Pak-wa is making a slow recovery from a bad attack of typhoid fever. The doctors in attendance have forbidden him to play soccer for at least three months.

Tay Quee-liang, the Singapore Chinese who has signed up for South China, will, I hear, be taking Ip's place on the left wing now that his suspension is over.

Great news for South China's supporters! Fung King-cheong has made a speedy recovery from his recent illness and will be seen against the Navy this Saturday.

With Fung back at centre forward, Pau Ka-ping will revert to his old position between the sticks, while Wong Wing will be the reserve goal keeper.

BELTRAO AWARDED PIVOT POSITION

CLUB LEFT WING TO ASSIST HOWE

McHARDY BETWEEN STICKS

(By OUTSIDE LEFT.)

A WEEK this Saturday will see the start of the Lai Wah Cup Knock-out Competition when the Royal Navy meet the Army on the Railway ground, Kowloon, and the Chinese meet the Civilians on the Club ground.

LAST year the Chinese won by defeating the Navy in the final round, but this year will probably see the Civilians and the Army in the Final, both teams having been considerably strengthened.

IN view of the number of Charity and other first-class games, the selection of the four teams should not provide a difficult problem for the selectors.

Several changes will be noted in the Civilians team this season the most notable being in the back division.

The selection of the Civilian custodian rests between McHardy of the Police, Lawson of the Club, and Marques of St. Joseph's. Of the three I would select McHardy for his confidence. Cord, the Kowloon goalkeeper, is ineligible owing to the fact that he is in the Royal Corps of Signals.

In selecting the two full-backs the two names which jump to the fore are A. V. Gosano and S. Strange. No better partnership could be found—both are experienced footballers, being fast on their feet and clever tacticians.

Best All Rounder

Gosano, since he dropped back into the Saints' defence, has not only proved himself one of the best defenders in the Colony, but one of the Colony's best soccer all-rounders. His headwork when dealing with high shots, particularly centres from both wings, gives precedence over any other back in the Colony.

Strange, with his Interport and Home experience, should make an ideal partner for Gosano, and it will take more than the Ridley-Hocquard or the Pau Ka-ping Tam Kong-pak partnerships to slip through.

The most difficult problem will be provided in the selection of the Civilian halves.

The selection of Robertson, the Club's latest acquisition, would occasion no surprise after his display against Kowloon when he completely bottled up the left wing to enable the Club to snatch a point.

Robertson is an ideal wing half, possessing speed, determination and amazing stamina. The pivot position will possibly cause criticism as there are several who can fill the position.

Beltrao For Centre Half

Beltrao of St. Joseph's, who has made a startling return to form since his injury in February this year, is certainly a very strong contender for the position, while Channings of the Police is another. I would certainly suggest Beltrao as pivot with Robertson on his right, and either Bliss or Andy Duncan on the left wing.

The latter position will arouse discussion as Jones of Kowloon is worthy of recognition.

Duncan has played well this season and his display against Wong Mei-shun and Young Shui-yick of South China last Saturday is a probable pointer to his selection.

Bliss is not as good as he was last season. In the last three

A meeting of the Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation's Football Section, will take place next Wednesday evening to select the Chinese team for the Lai Wah Cup Competition.

It is interesting to note that amongst those teams affiliated to the Hong Kong Football Association, and yet not taking part in the Hong Kong League, are the Kowloon Club, the Eastern Athletic Association and the Second and Third Division teams from the East Landship Regiment.

McHardy (Police), A. V. Gosano (St. Joseph's), and S. Strange (Club), Robertson (Club), Beltrao (St. Joseph's), and Jones (Kowloon), B. Gosano (St. Joseph's), Elliott (Kowloon), Howe (Club), E. Strange (Club), and Bickford (Club).

SNIPPETS

M. Sahban, St. Joseph's outside left is making a slow recovery and expects to play again within three weeks.

F. B. Santos, the Recreio's outstanding player of last season who was mainly responsible for South China's sensational defeat at the close of last season, has been forced to give up football owing to a serious illness.

To Wai-hing (South China) and M. Oliveira (Recreio) will come before the Emergency Committee to-night to give an explanation for the regrettable incident in the Third Division game at King's Park on Saturday. The incident was followed by the spectators invading the pitch, the referee, Mr. G. Meade, was compelled to cancel the game after the Police had been called in.

Ridley, the Lincolns' inside left, who was injured in a Company Hockey game at Shamshuipo Barracks last Wednesday, is now being rested, and the cut which necessitated two stitches under his left eye is rapidly healing. It is hoped, however, that he will take part in the return game against the Police this Saturday.

Two soccer changes in the First Division are notified.

The game between the Royal Navy and South China scheduled for Sunday has been brought forward to Saturday and will take part on the Railway ground, Kowloon.

The Police v. Lincolns First Division game having already been played off, the latter have asked for their return fixture to be played on Sunday afternoon on the Railway ground, Kowloon. I understand from the Football Association Secretary that this has been confirmed.

A meeting of the Council will be held in the Association Office, 6, Des Voeux Road, on Monday at 5.30 p.m.

Warrant Officer Hughes of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, who accompanied the victorious Shanghai Interport team to this port last February, is again in Hong Kong now with a draft of about 100 Highlanders awaiting the next troopship in February.

Albert Howe, who was badly crooked on Saturday last against South China, is making a slow recovery and it is thought probable that he will lead the Club forwards against St. Joseph's on Saturday.

Leung In Chan (South China)

BORN in the Sun Wui district, Kwangtung Province, in 1910 Leung In-chan, South China's right wing half, first came into local prominence when he played full back for South China's second eleven in 1925.

A steady defensive player, Leung gradually worked his way up, until he was promoted to the first eleven in 1928.

During the period from 1928 to 1930 Leung shone in all competitive soccer competitions, so much so, that he was selected to represent China in the 1930 Far Eastern Olympiad, held in Tokyo.

In the following years he still retained his right wing half position and last season played for South China during their brilliant campaign in the Hong Kong Soccer League. In the Hong Kong Soccer League, the Sunday Herald Inter-national Charity series, the Lai

Wah Cup Knock-out Competition and the Senior Shield Competition.

Recently Leung In-chan represented the Hong Kong Chinese in their unsuccessful attempt at retaining the championship of China, at the National Meeting held at Nanjing in October 30. Outside national Charity series, the Lai

LINCOLNS
WINR.A. OFFICERS LOSE
BY ONLY GOALCentre From Hocquard
Converted By Reeks.

EARLIER DEFEAT AVENGED

(By "IMP")

IN drizzling rain at Shamshuipo yesterday afternoon the Lincolns premier hockey eleven secured a narrow victory over the R.A. Officers by the goal scored.

A fast and thrilling encounter was witnessed by a large crowd of "Tommys" and the result was in doubt until the final whistle.

The Lincolns fielded the same side which lost to the Radio on Monday, while the R.A. relied upon the same eleven who were defeated by the Club on Monday.

In the previous encounter between the two teams about a month ago on the Marina ground the R.A. won by two clear goals.

No goals were scored in the first half which was contested at a fast pace, play transferring rapidly from end to end.

The second half opened sensationally, Hocquard, after a brilliant run, centred for REEKS to open the Lincolns account after 60 seconds play. Though several good attempts by both teams almost produced more goals.

Lieut. Hocquard, the Lincolns Soccer and Hockey skipper, played a brilliant game, his runs and centres causing constant anxiety to the R.A. defence. Yeomans played well at centre half, while Bentley and Lt. Roisier proved stout defenders.

For the R.A., Williams, Flowerdew, and Garthwaite were prominent.

Lt. Ravenhill played a good game at centre half, and Lt. Shields was conspicuous in the R.A. goal. Lincolns:—Hollingsworth, Bentley, Roisier, Harper, Yeomans and Catter; Green, Shamble, Reeks, Wilson and Hocquard.

R.A. Officers:—Shields, Mitchell, Metcalfe, Waring, Ravenhill, Carter, Williams, Garthwaite, Flowerdew, Laine and Tollington.

GOALS NEVER IN DANGER

(By STICKS).

IN a friendly hockey encounter at Sookunpo yesterday the Royal Engineers held the Radio Sports Club to a goalless draw.

The condition of the ground was very unsatisfactory and a slight drizzle handicapped the players throughout the game.

M. H. Hussan and Kalwant Singh were absent from the Radio eleven, their places being filled by Mohinder Singh and Surgin Singh.

For the Engineers Lt. Cooper, on the right wing, and Capt. Duchesne, at back, played outstanding games, while Mohinder Singh at centre-half made a creditable substitute for Hussan. Both sides attacked frequently, but the goals were never in danger at any time during the game.

SIX BOUTS AT LEE THEATRE

(By Ringsider).

THE fight for the Middleweight Championship of the Colony and the Belt between Seaman Harry Ewin, champion of China, the China Fleet, holder of the Belt, and winner of over 150 fights in England, and A. B. Fraggott, West of England champion, Atlantic Fleet champion, and undefeated in Services' boxing, will be the main event on the Hong Kong Boxing Association's very fine programme to be staged at the Lee Theatre on Saturday week.

Mr. A. E. Ainsworth, the promoter and acting manager, is to be congratulated on arranging a card which promises to be the finest in the annals of boxing in the Colony. The programme, which includes six Fleet champions, has been drafted up and now requires only confirmation.

The following is the proposed programme:
15 Round Contest for Middleweight Championship of the Colony and Belt.
Seaman Harry Ewin (H.M.S. Kent) v A. B. Fraggott (H.M.S. Berwick)8 Round Welterweight Contest
Seaman Barry (H.M.S. Berwick) v A. B. Parker (H.M.S. Medway)8 Round Heavyweight Contest
A. B. Tim Foley (H.M.S. Berwick) v A. B. Judge (H.M.S. Whitshed)6 Round Featherweight Contest
Sto. Pryall (H.M.S. Suffolk) v A. B. Sharpe (H.M.S. Whitshed)6 Round Middleweight Contest
A. B. Taylor (H.M.S. Berwick) v J. Burns (H.M.S. Eagle)6 Round Featherweight Contest
Sto. King (H.M.S. Kent) v Tel. Johnson (H.M.S. Berwick)

At one time a contender for the middleweight championship of England, Ewin last fought in the Colony when he outpointed Jack Creighton for the Colony title in the City Hall. Since then he has won the China title against Creighton while stationed in Shanghai.

Fraggott has lost only seven out of 170 fights and was Atlantic Fleet champion in 1925, 1926, 1929, and 1931. He made his debut in Colony boxing with a rousing display at the Lee Theatre early in the year.

Seaman Barry, who is making his debut in Hong Kong boxing, has fought over 200 contests and won the West of England Lightweight Championship. In 1931 he was the Royal Navy and Royal Marines champion. Efforts are being made to bring him up against Percy Lake, the Colony lightweight holder. Parker was beaten by Fraggott in the Final of the Atlantic Fleet Welterweight Championship. He has a draw to his credit against Tommy Warnes.

Foley is the Colony heavyweight champion and holder of the belt as the result of his win over Judge. He has sparred with Primo Carnera, the present world champion.Plucky Judge
Judge is the light-heavyweight champion of the China Fleet and one of the pluckiest boxers seen in Hong Kong.

Pryall was featherweight champion of North America and the West Indies last year. He is undefeated at his weight and may in the near future be matched against Lake for the Belt.

Sharpe was runner-up in the China Fleet Featherweight Championship this year.

The winner will take all in the middleweight bout between Taylor and Burns.

A. B. Willoughby (H.M.S. Cumberland), middleweight champion of the Royal Navy and Royal Marines in 1927, was to have fought A. B. Long (H.M.S. Berwick), winner of over 160 fights against the best in England, in the light heavyweight division, but the bout was cancelled at the last moment.

Navy's Challenge

The Navy will again be fielding their strongest team, and should give the League champions a good run for their money.

South China will be strengthened at forward as I am told Fung King-cheong has rapidly recovered from his recent illness and will be leading the forwards against the Navy. Tay Quee-ling, the Singapore Chinese makes his reappearance on the left wing in place of Tong Kwan, while Pau Ka-ping will resume his position in goal.

If the Navy succeed in breaking up the partnership between Fung and Tam Kong-pak and in intercepting the passes of Leung Wing-chui and his wing-halfs, they may rest assured of victory.

Unselfishness of Navy
Forwards

An outstanding feature in the Navy side is the unselfishness of Langmead and Smith. Both are fine footballers, cool, and collected in the face of danger and deadly when within range, but they nevertheless have displayed unselfishness in letting the ball go to the other insiders when they could very well have netted themselves.

On Saturday every scoring opportunity will have to be fully exploited, otherwise South China are going to climb another rung in the ladder to championship honours.

In the other games the Artillery should take two points off the Recreio, while Kowloon will be fully extended against the Borderers.

On Sunday the Lincolns, who are now joint leaders with St. Joseph's and the Navy, meet the Police in their return fixture which has been brought forward from April 14.

Ownership of Gold.

A point of international interest was decided by the Supreme Court of the United States in deciding against the Roosevelt administration in the case which became known as the "gold-hoarding test case." The indictment of Mr. F. B. Campbell, an American citizen, for refusing, in defiance of the Federal statute of March 9 and subsequent executive orders, to surrender to the Government gold in his possession, was avowedly an action to test the constitutionality of that law. The Government's lawyers frankly recognized that such a test ought to be made. Defendant's answer contended that the statute violates the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution, which provides that no person shall be deprived of property "without due process of law, nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation." There is no clear and obvious precedent in the court's constitutional decisions for the Government's action requiring holders of gold, under drastic penalty, to surrender it in exchange for legal tender notes was itself unprecedented. When the United States "went off the gold standard" between 1861 and 1873, private possession of gold was not only tolerated but, through purchase of gold at a premium by the Treasury from individuals and through sales of gold to them, it was officially recognized. During and after the recent war both France and Germany prohibited export of gold, but neither demanded surrender of private holdings under penalty. In 1914 and 1915, the effort of both Governments to effect exchange of privately owned gold for banknotes was based, not on compulsion, but explicitly on the plea for voluntary surrender of gold coins as a matter of patriotism. The French devaluation law of 1928 reduced the gold content of the monetary unit and demonetized pre-war gold coinage; nevertheless, the Government thereafter purchased from wartime hoarders, at the bullion value, very great amounts of such pre-war coins. Great Britain's "currency amalgamation law" of 1928 did, indeed, provide that "any person in the United Kingdom, owning any gold coin or bullion to an amount exceeding £10,000," might be required by the Bank of England to sell all or any part of it to the Bank at the statutory price. This, however, was clearly a measure of protection against the possible contingency of a sudden and abnormal strain on the central gold reserve. The law was enacted when the Bank was paying out gold freely in exchange for its notes and when indefinite continuance of that policy was expected; it has not been enforced since British suspension of gold payments. At the climax of the German currency collapse in September, 1923, when a dollar would exchange for 50,000,000 paper marks, the German Government decreed that precious metals owned by its citizens, as well as their holdings of foreign exchange or negotiable securities, might be seized. But even that decree provided for special compensation in the shape of participation in a so-called "gold loan," and it had to be preceded by suspension, on the ground that "public security and safety are endangered," of certain articles in the German Constitution. Penal statute of March 9, being part of the "Emergency Banking Act" and decreeing compulsory surrender of gold only "when ever, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury, such action is necessary to protect the currency system of the United States," was clearly designed to meet conditions which do not to-day exist. During the "moratorium panic" in March there was withdrawal from the Reserve banks, through presentation of notes for redemption, $517,000,000 gold, and of this nearly one-half was taken for hoarding purposes. "Emergency legislation" under such circumstances had at least a reasonable defense. But the subsequent complete suspension of gold payments, under the Congressional resolution of June 5, has entirely altered that position. Except by official license, no one can now get gold at the Federal Reserve. The system itself has added $1,300,000,000 to its own gold holdings since March 8. It now holds $106,000,000 more than the highest record prior to 1933, and there can be no "raid" upon it. Clearly, therefore, compulsory surrender of gold from private holdings is no longer "necessary to protect the currency system." On the other hand, there does exist the possibility of a situation which would make the continued sequestration of privately owned gold an act of glaring wrongfulness and tyranny. Imagining the currency-inflation fanatics to have their way unchecked, experience renders it at least conceivable that the currency would depreciate to a nominal valuation. Throughout past history the laying aside of gold, often in small amounts, has on such occasions been the private citizen's one recourse to save something from the wreck. That the United States Government should be the first to declare that such refuge shall, under any and all circumstances, be denied to its people, is a new and fantastic incident in financial history.

Herr Hitler's Ancestry

The middle of Herr Hitler's ancestry continues to provide work for rival firms of genealogists.

The latest contribution to the theory that he is of Jewish descent is the discovery in the Jewish cemetery of Bukarest of the tomb of a certain Adolf Hitler, an Austrian subject, who died in 1892.

The gravestone, which has an ornate design has two texts: one in Hebrew and one in Rumanian. The Rumanian text runs: "Here lie the mortal remains of Adolf Hitler, died the 28th October, 1892, at the age of sixty. Pray for him."

Although there is nothing to show that Chancellor Hitler is a descendant of this other Adolf, it will now be difficult to deny that Jewish Hitlers existed in Austria.

The Official Tree

Meanwhile, the official central office for German personal and family history has published the genealogical tree of the Chancellor's family.

Herr Hitler's oldest known ancestor, Caspar Brodus, was born in 1599. This line of ancestors on his mother's side goes back nine generations. The family Poelzl, from which his mother is descended, can be traced back to 1752, and on his father's side the line goes back six generations in succession to 1672.

Originally the name recorded is Hiedler. Then it becomes Huttler, and finally Hitler. As a rule the name is put on a par with Hitler, and is taken to mean hut-builder. Actually it is the term for the boatmen who transported the salt contained at Hallin down the Salzach to Salzburg. It is of pure Aryan origin.

GREAT CHANCES BRITAIN IS SLOW TO GRASP

(By Julian Duguid.)

When the train pulled in to Sudbury, Ontario, my heart sank. It was a Sunday morning, and from my acquaintance with mining towns in the Andes, quite horribly familiar.

There were the same forlorn buildings against a background of dun hills, the same baked earth and slag-heaps; all vegetation killed by the sulphur fumes from the smelters.

It was as if these houses knew they would be abandoned to-morrow should the mines give out. Yet the inhabitants, I knew, would account it blasphemy to speak one word against the place.

Famous Nickel Mines

Sudbury is dominated by the enormous chimney of the Copper Cliff smelting plant. It is the largest in the Empire, being 510 ft. tall and 45 ft. in diameter at the top.

In clear weather an aviator can gauge the wind-drift from 80 miles away. Nor is such majesty unflattering. For Sudbury is important, really important, though it may not be famous outside of mining circles.

The great Frood mine, with the smaller Falconbridge and others, together control 90 per cent. of the world's supply of nickel. This means that the vast majority of bullet jackets, electro-plated goods, and the small money coins of Canada, France, Italy, Switzerland, and Belgium are born in these northern hills.

It means also that transformers, motor and generator plants, struts in auto-engine pistons, thermostatic metals, tanks for hardening chemicals, metals, tanks for hardening chemicals, electric machinery castings, jewellery mountings in white gold, die castings, electric furnace castings, and the mere ordinary metals for plumbing have, in some way or another, with different percentages of alloy, come from here, too.

It is a sobering thought. For American capital and enterprise are very largely responsible. In the event of opposing interests between the United States and ourselves, Sudbury might figure in the headlines.

The Man From "Tronner"

During the whole of a long summer day I absorbed atmosphere. The facts about nickel, and their implication, were known to me; but I wanted to see whether England had any part in this at all. The hotel lounge was illuminating.

There, on the notice-board, were five advertisements. In the centre, the pivotal reason for the presence of 20,000 inhabitants, was a placard of the assayer's office. Without his judgment of ore no safe business would be possible. On either side were photographs of two churches, Methodist and Presbyterian.

In the windows of the lounge, overlooking the dusty street, a number of hard-faced men were talking. They had that peculiar metallic glaze inseparable from those who deal in minerals. From time to time they removed cigarettes from their teeth. I enjoyed a quiet eavesdrop.

In a way their conversation was surprising. They spoke neither of mining stocks nor of girls, as do their South American brethren, but of politicians. They were bitter but interested, miraculously well-informed. In a far corner a man who pronounced Ottawa "Orterwor," and was therefore a native of that city, was arguing with a friend who called Toronto "Tronner."

I turned to my next-door neighbour, and had scarcely opened my mouth before he asked after the Old Country. His inquiry was perfunctory, however, as if thousands of miles of water had insulated his mind. He was Canadian born, with no ties "over there."

"Why do we remember politicians?" he asked slowly, "even those that were no good? We—well, we are an empty country, grossly over-governed. Say, wouldn't you remember a guy that kissed you at elections and afterwards bit your ear? We have Dominion, provincial, and municipal politicians, and what they leave us can be spent on ourselves."

We left it at that; and, while I apologise to those whose ideas of Empire are based on the Indian

Civil Service, I must stand by what I heard—and saw. Not once, but fifty times since I landed, men of all grades have walked over politicians.

Canada is riddled with huge buildings, hotels and libraries, public offices and social clubs, which would be appropriate to treble the population. Hundreds of miles of roads lead to villages of perhaps fifty souls. They are the result of many generations of promises to constituents.

Three Londons

Everybody admits the evil, but so long as each Province has a separate Government there does not seem much to be done. Probably the answer is to increase immigration in a grand but controlled manner, and prohibit election pledges for at least twenty years.

Next morning I called on the local newspaper. The chief reporter looked up from a slip on which were typed the doings of London, Ont., London, Mass., and London, Eng.—in that order—and asked my business. When, finally, he grasped that an English writer was actually interested in Canada his face unfroze and he shook hands. And there was something in his eyes which made me wonder just how far we have let the Dominions slide.

"Well," he said, with real friendliness, "I wish there were more of you. We got our news through Yankee sources. What can I do for you?"

I told him, and at four o'clock we set out in his car. As we drove through the yellow countryside he explained that the mine we were to visit had once belonged to Edison—almost. The great inventor had sunk an experimental shaft to within fourteen feet of the wealthy copper deposits, and had then abandoned it.

It was now manned by hundreds of New Brunswick miners, of Scots descent. We passed a gang of them, dour-faced bravies in crash helmets, on our way to the office. The manager, who had been born an Englishman, lit his pipe.

America's Big Stakes

"When are you going to help us develop?" he asked quietly. "Those red smears on the map ought to mean more than hot air. The country is hardly more than scratched; and Americans are staking it for all they are worth." This was true. In 1931, when the last statistics were published, America held more than four billion dollars worth of investments in Canada; almost twice our own. United States citizens were in many of the highest executive positions.

Since 1913 American stakes in Canada have advanced 900 per cent. And where the main chance is concerned, New York is pretty shrewd. "Why don't you do something?" said the manager. "God knows we have tried to interest you. Personally we may prefer you to Americans; but we are a rising country. If you won't invest we must go elsewhere."

SETTLEMENT OF FUKIEN REVOLT

Peaceful Means Urged In Nanking.

MODERATE INFLUENCE

Shanghai, To-day.

While talk of war between the Central Government and the Fukien secessionists is in the air, a group of members of the Central Executive Committee of the Kuomintang are in the lime-light by exercising moderate influence with the hope that the Fukien revolt will be settled by peaceful means.

General Li Loh-chun, a veteran Kuomintang leader, who is leading the movement, is expected to issue an important statement outlining his attitude and making recommendations to remedy the situation.

While deprecating the rebels' action of precipitating internal strife, General Li believes that though the situation is serious, the opportunity for settlement by peaceful means has not entirely gone. Central News Agency.

Nanking, To-day.

One hundred thousand people attended a mass meeting here this morning at which four resolutions were passed.

Firstly, that a telegraph message be sent to Marshal Chiang Kai-shek urging an immediate order for a punitive expedition against the Fukien rebels.

Secondly, that a telegraph message be sent to the Canton, Kwang si, Chekiang and Hunan commanders urging joint military operations against the rebels.

Thirdly, that a telegraph message be sent to the Nineteenth Route Army officers and men, urging loyalty to the Kuomintang.

Fourthly, that a telegraph message be sent to the Central Executive Council members urging them to hurry to Nanking to discuss the country's pressing problems.—Reuter.

THEATRE LICENSEE FINED $50

Locked Escape Door Of Operating Room.

OBSTRUCTION OF GANGWAY ALSO ALLEGED

Mr. Lee Hy-lap, licensee of the Lee Theatre, Percival Street, was fined $50 by Mr. Hamilton at the Central Police Court this morning for causing a stairway in the theatre to be obstructed by a locked door on November 9 at 10.25 p.m.

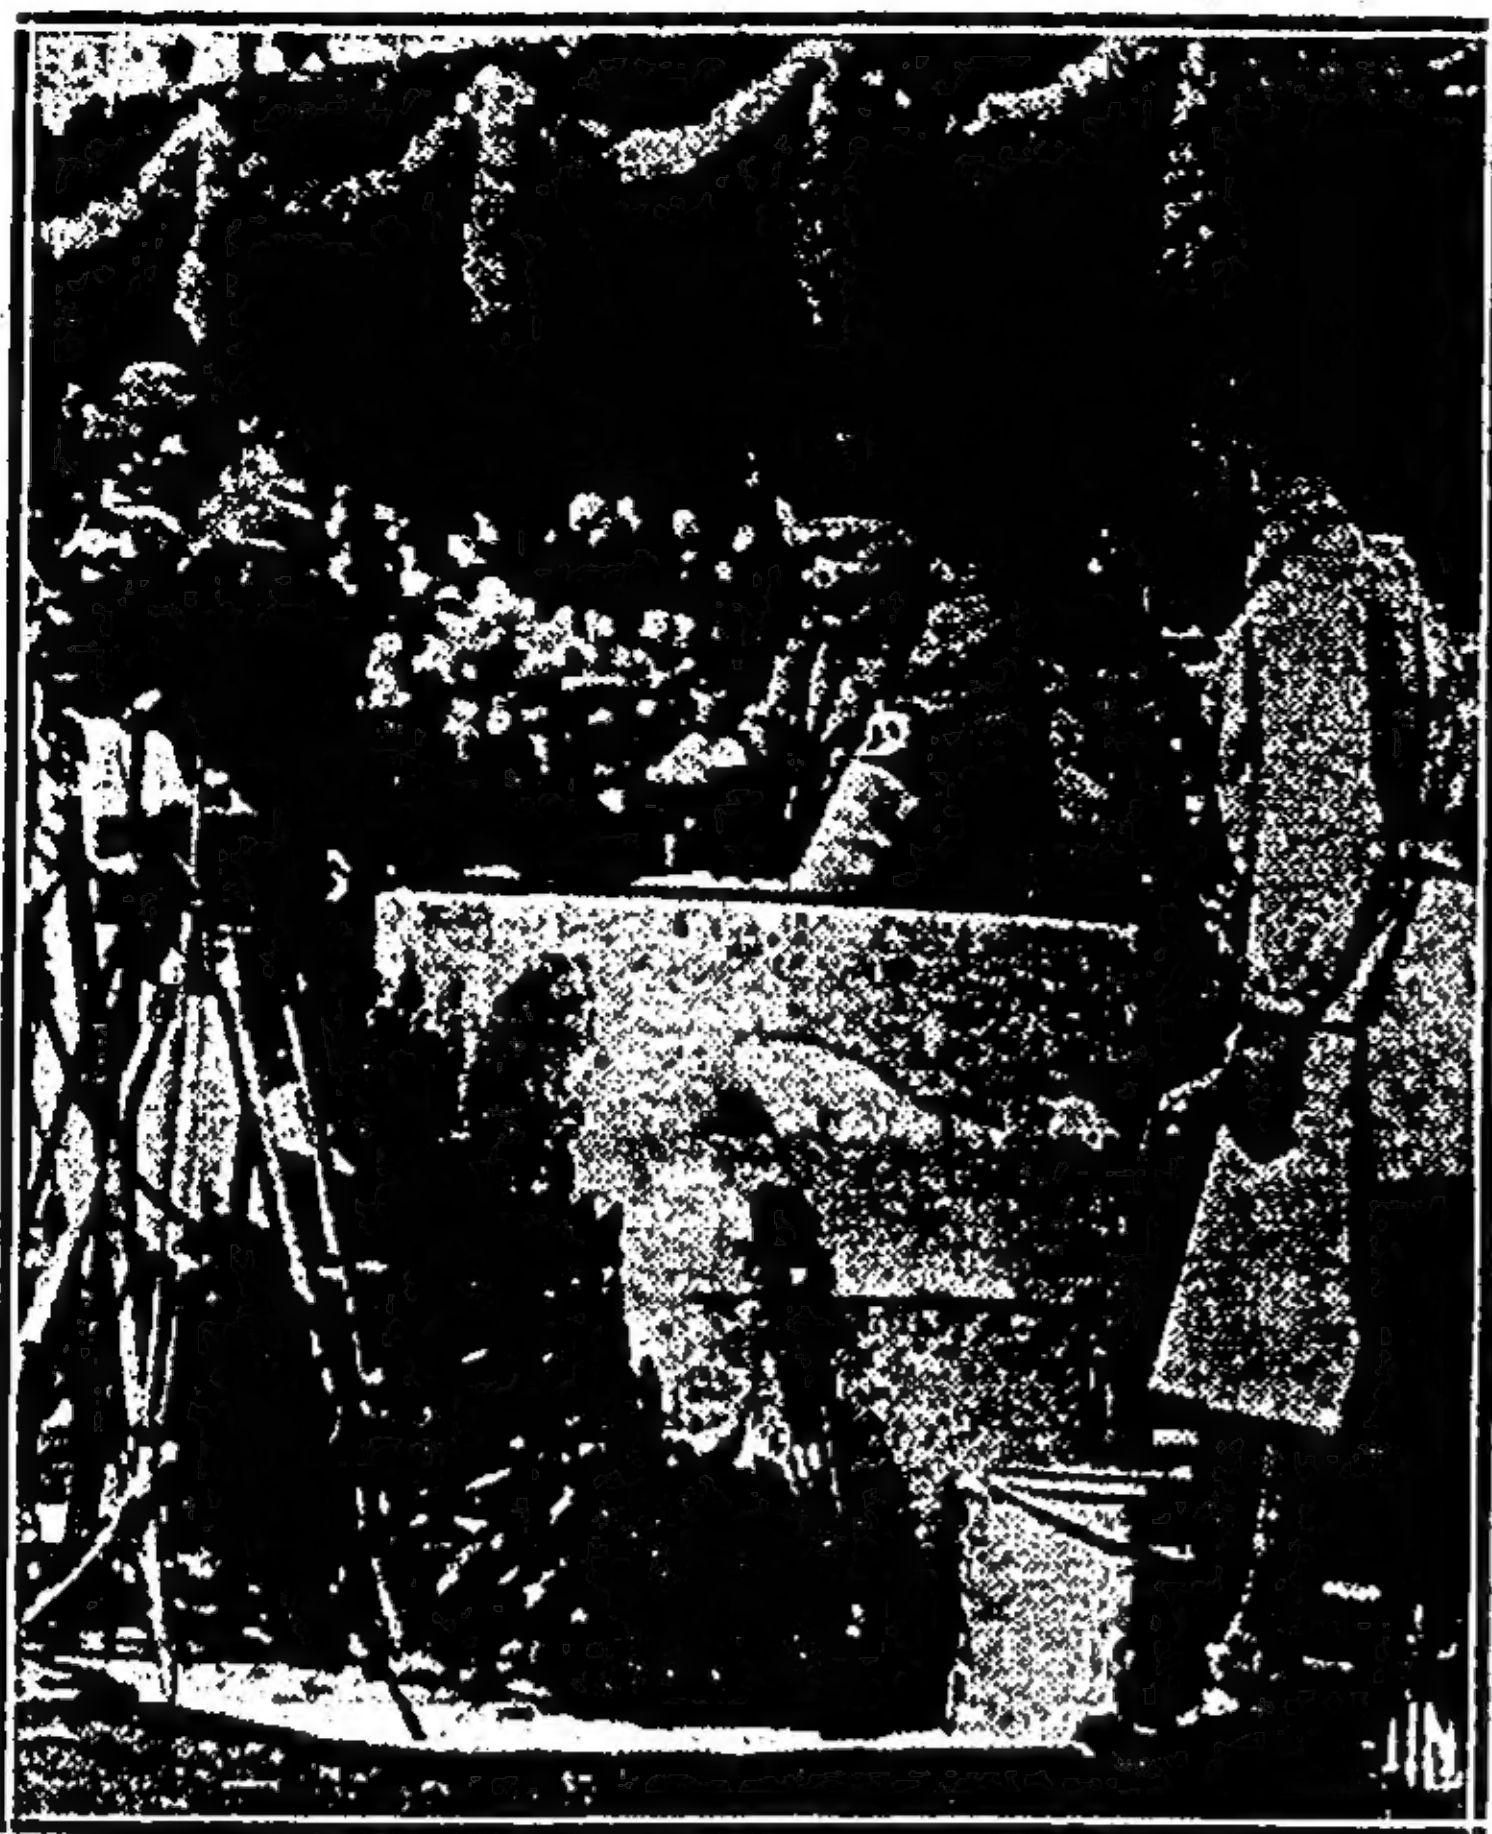

Pleading guilty, Mr. T. P. K. Kemble, counsel for the defendant, said that the door in question was an alternative escape door in the operating room of the theatre, which only existed for the requirements of the Fire Brigade Department. On the night of the visit by the Brigade Officer, the operator, who had sole charge of the key, arrived late, entering the operating room by the ordinary door, and in his hurry forgot to unlock the second door.

The Magistrate, in convicting, said that it was this sort of thing that caused disasters. Mr. Kemble pleaded not guilty to a second summons for permitting the gangways in the theatre to be obstructed by bamboo trestles, ladders and decorating material. He admitted that the bamboo poles and other material were in the theatre, but said they were placed in a recess and were not in any way causing an obstruction.

Mr. J. C. Fitz-Henry, of the Fire Brigade Department, said that a surprise visit was made to the theatre at 10.25 p.m. on Nov. 9. The theatre was being decorated at the time and a large quantity of bamboo trestles and decorating material was lying in the gangways. There was a poor audience in the theatre at the time, but nevertheless the material would have caused a serious obstruction in case of emergency, he said.

The Magistrate adjourned the case for a week to enable him to visit the theatre with the prosecuting officer and counsel.

He understood that importations of this ore had recently been resumed after a considerable lapse of time.—British Wireless Service.

SETTLEMENT OF ASSYRIANS

Problem For League Of Nations.

BRITAIN CANNOT ACCEPT SEPARATE LIABILITY

London, To-day.

In the House of Lords last night the Archbishop of Canterbury called attention to the plight of the Assyrians and said that he shared the hope expressed by Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, that the Council of the League of Nations would be able to make a satisfactory and enduring solution of the most perplexing and difficult problem of finding a place of settlement for the Assyrian people.

Replying for the Government, Lord Hailsham, Minister for War, recalled that after the war, which the Assyrians had entered at the instance of Russia, Great Britain had saved them from annihilation by keeping many thousands of them in refugee camps at considerable expense.

Since that time, he said, Britain had assisted them to settle on lands which they occupied before the war and in other suitable places. It was not possible to settle them in one homogeneous community in Europe.

Lord Hailsham denied that Sir Francis Humphreys had assured the Mandates Commission at Geneva that Britain would accept responsibility for the future safety and welfare of the Assyrians after the cessation of the mandate and the entrance of Iraq into the League of Nations.

To a question by the Mandates Commission whether Iraq had reached such a state of development that they could be relied upon to exercise religious toleration, Sir Francis Humphreys has replied that he was satisfied Iraq could be so relied upon, and responsibility for that view rested upon the British Government and not upon the Mandates Commission.

He never gave any assurance that after Britain gave up the mandate she would guarantee the protection of minorities in Iraq.

Lord Hailsham pointed out that in the recent disturbances the Assyrians attacked first and had they succeeded, a first-class war would have broken out with the certainty of very serious repercussions.

On the other hand, the excesses of the Iraqis after subduing the Assyrians were quite unjustifiable and had merited and received the severest condemnation.

With regard to the efforts of the Committee of the Council of the League to find a place for the resettlement of the Assyrians in a foreign country, the problem presented very great difficulty and it seemed that up to present no suitable place was available.

The Iraq Government had undertaken to make a substantial contribution towards whatever cost might be incurred in re-settling the Assyrians.

The view of the Government was that apart from the special responsibility of the Iraq Government, there rested also a very great responsibility upon the League of Nations as a whole.

He did not think Britain would

To-day's Short Story.

THE MAN WHO GAVE GOOD ADVICE

By Maurice Baring.

WHEN he was a child his baby brother came to him one day and said that their elder brother, who was grown up, had got a beautiful small ship in his room. Should he ask him for it? The child who gave good advice said, "No; if you ask him for it he will say you are a spoilt child; but go and play in his room with it before he gets up in the morning, and he will give it to you."

The baby brother followed this advice, and sure enough two days afterwards he appeared triumphant in the nursery with the ship in his hands, saying, "He said I might choose, the ship or the picture-book."

Now the picture-book was a coloured edition of Baron Munchausen's adventures; the boy who gave good advice had seen it and hankered for it. As his baby brother had refused it there could be no harm in asking for it, so the next time his elder brother sent him on an errand (it was to fetch a pin-cushion from his room), judging the moment to be propitious, he said to him, "May I have the picture-book that baby wouldn't have? 'I don't like little boys who ask,' answered the big brother, and there the matter ended."

The child who gave good advice went to school. There was a rage for stag beetles at the school; the boys painted them and made them run races on a chessboard. They imagined—rightly or wrongly—that some stag beetles were much faster than others.

A little boy called Bell possessed the stag beetle which was the favourite for the coming races. Another boy called Mason was consumed with longing for this stag beetle; and Bell had said he would give it him in exchange for Mason's catapult, which was famous in the school for the unique straightness or its two prongs. Mason went to the boy who gave good advice and asked him for his opinion.

"Don't swap it for your catty," said the boy who gave good advice, "because Bell's stag beetle may not win after all; and even if it does, stag beetles won't be the rage for very long; but a catty is always a catty, and yours is the best in the school." Mason took the advice. When the races came off the stag beetles were so erratic that no prize was awarded, and they immediately ceased to be the rage.

The rage for stag beetles was succeeded by a rage for secret alphabets. One boy invented a secret alphabet made of simple hieroglyphics, which was imparted only to a select few, who spent their spare time in corresponding with each other by these cryptic signs. The boy who gave good advice was not of those initiated into the mystery of the cipher, and he longed to be. He made several overtures, but they were all rejected, the reason being that boys of the second division could not let a "third division squit" into their secret.

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "Crevasse," by William Faulkner.

At last the boy who gave good advice offered to one of the initiated the whole of his stamp collection in return for the secret of the alphabet. This offer was accepted. The boy took the stamp collection, but the boy who gave good advice received in return not the true alphabet, but a sham one especially manufactured for him. This he found out later; but recriminations were useless; besides which the rage for secret alphabets soon died out, and was replaced by a rage for acquiriums, newts and natterjack toads.

The boy went to a public school. He was a fag. His fag-master had two fags. One morning the other fag came to the boy who gave good advice and said:

"Clarke (he was the fag-master) told me three days ago to clean his football boots. He's been 'staying out' and hasn't used them, and I forgot. He'll want them to-day, and now there isn't time. I shall pretend I did clean them."

"No, don't do that," said the boy who gave good advice, "because if you say you have cleaned them he will lick you twice as much for having cleaned them badly—say you forgot." The advice was taken, and the fag-master merely said, "Don't forget again."

A little later the fag-master had some friends to tea, and told the boy who gave good advice to boil him six eggs for not more than three minutes and a half. The boy who gave good advice, while they were on the fire, took part in a rag which was going on in the passage; the result was that the eggs remained seven minutes in boiling water. They were hard.

When the fag-master pointed this out and asked his fag what he meant by it, the boy who gave good advice, persisted in his statement that they had been exactly three minutes and a half in the saucepan, and that he had timed them by his watch. So the fag-master caned him for telling lies.

The boy who gave good advice grew into a man and went to the university. There he made friends with a man called Crawley, who went to a neighbouring race-meeting one day and lost two or three hundred pounds.

"I must raise the money from a money-lender somehow," said Crawley to the man who gave good advice, "and on no account must the Master hear of it or he would send me down; or write home, which would be worse."

"On the contrary," said the man who gave good advice, "you must go straight to the Master and tell him all about it. He will like you twice as much for ever afterwards; he never minds people getting into scrapes when he happens to like them, and he likes you and believes you have a great career before you."

Crawley went to the Master of his college and made a clean breast of it. The Master told him he had been foolish—very foolish; but he arranged the whole matter in such a manner that it never came to the ears of Crawley's extremely violent-tempered and puritanical father.

THE MAN WHO GAVE GOOD ADVICE

The man who gave good advice got a "First" in Mods, and every one felt confident he would get a "First" in Greats; he did brilliantly in nearly all his papers; but during the Latin Unseen a temporary and sudden lapse of memory came over him and he forgot the English for manubio, which the day before he had known quite well means prize-money. In fact, the word was written on the first page of his note book. The word was in his brain, but a small shutter had closed on it for the moment and he could not recall it.

He looked over his neighbour's shoulder. His neighbour had translated it "booty." He copied the word mechanically, knowing it was wrong. As he did so he was detected and accused of cribbing. He denied the charge, the matter was investigated, the papers were compared, and the man who gave good advice was disqualified. In all his other papers he had done incomparably better than anyone else.

When he left Oxford, the man who gave good advice went into a Government office. He had not been in it long before he perceived that by certain simple reforms the work of the office could be done twice as effectively and half as expensively. He embodied these reforms in a memorandum, and they were not long afterwards adopted. He became private secretary to Snipe, a rising politician, and persuaded him to change his party and his politics.

Snipe, owing to this advice, became a Cabinet Minister, and the man who gave good advice, having inherited some money, stood for Parliament himself. He stood as a Conservative at a General Election and spoke eloquently to enthusiastic meetings. The wire-pullers prophesied an overwhelming majority when, shortly before the poll, at one of his last meetings, he suddenly declared himself to be an Independent, and made a speech violently in favour of Home Rule and Constitution. The result was that the Liberal Imperialist got in by a huge majority, and the man who gave good advice was pelted with rotten eggs.

After this the man who gave good advice abandoned politics and took to finance. In this branch of human affairs he made the fortunes of several of his friends, preventing some from putting their money in alluring South African schemes and advising others to risk theirs on events which seemed to him certain, such as the election of a President, or the short-lived nature of a revolution—events which he foresaw with intuition amounting to second-sight.

At the same time he lost nearly all his own money by investing it in a company which professed to have discovered a manner—cheap and rapid—of transforming copper into platinum.

He made the fortune of a publisher by insisting on the publication of a novel which six intelligent men had declared to be unreadable. It was called "The Conscience of John Digby," and when published it sold by thousands and tens of thousands. But he lost the handsome reward he received for this service by publishing at his own expense, on magnificent paper, an edition of Rabelais's works in their original tongue.

To Lead Navy Mass Flight

Lieut. Commander K. McGinnis (left), who commanded the mass flight of U. S. Navy planes from Quantico, Va., to Coco Solo, C. Z., and thence to San Diego, Cal., welcomes Rear Admiral A. W. Johnson, commander of the San Diego air base as the admiral shifts his flag to the flag plane he will use on the forthcoming mass flight to Hawaii. The squadron is participating in Pacific maneuvers.

He frequently spotted winners for his friends and for himself, but any money that he won at a race meeting he invariably lost coming home in the train on the three-card trick.

Nor did he lose touch with politicians, and this brought about the final catastrophe. A great friend of his, the eminent John Brooke, had the chance of becoming Prime Minister. Parties were at that time in a state of confusion. The question was, should his friend ally himself with Mr. Capax Nissy, the leader of the Liberal Aristocracy Party, who seemed to have a huge following?

His friend, John Brooke, gave a small dinner to his most intimate friends in order to talk over the matter. The man who gave good advice was so eloquent, so cogent in his reasoning, so acute in his perception, that he persuaded Brooke to sever himself for ever from Capax Nissy. He persuaded all who were present, with the exception of Mr. Short-Sight, a pig-headed man who reasoned falsely. So annoyed did the man who gave good advice become with Short-Sight, and so excited in his vexation, that he finally lost his self-control, and hit him as hard as he could on the head—after Short-Sight had repeated a groundless asseration for the seventh time—with the poker.

Short-Sight died, and the man who gave good advice was convicted of wilful murder. He gave admirable advice to his solicitor, but threw away his case as soon as he entered the box himself, which he insisted on doing. He was hanged in gaol at Reading. Many people whom he had benefited in various ways visited him in prison, among others John Brooke, the Prime Minister. It is said that he would certainly have been reprieved but for the intemperate and inexcusable letters he wrote to the Home Secretary from prison.

"It's a great tragedy; he was a clever man," said Brooke after dinner, when they were discussing the misfortune at Downing-street; "a very clever man, but he had no judgment."

"No," said Snipe, the man whose private secretary the man who gave good advice had been, "that's it. It's an awful thing—but he had no judgment."

"Coal Diggers of 1933" in Soviet Russia

All women in Soviet Russia, who are capable, work, by a large comrade, Tavarish Marinichava, are called on to mine, others paving and sweeping streets, as well as shock workers in the Lena Mine of on farms, in factories and mines. This group, headed by the Kuzbass Coal Field. They do men's work.

U.S. POURS DOLLARS INTO CANADA

He went on to speak of many things which were close to him. The different outlook of the new and the old world towards investment. How Europeans having lost their youth, look first for a safe 4 per cent; how Canadians and Americans cannot afford to rest content. There are mines to be opened up, power schemes to be developed, new colonising land to be settled.

For these, and for the thousand other aims, big money and great faith are essential. Nor can it be guaranteed. Each mine is a gamble, though not so much now that the diamond drill can explore the secrets of the veins.

Boards That Tarry

To make money in Canada, to ensure the destiny of the people, risks must be taken. And the man who takes most risks, with the eyes of science opened to help him, will be the man to win.

The manager told me of geologists who had come out from England. They had made their decisions swiftly, cabled to London, only to be informed that the board must consider the matter, at length. With tears in their eyes they had seen Americans step in and erect plant.

I asked whether English geologists were competent to make snap judgments, and was told they were the best in the world. They were just hindered by directors at home who don't make up their minds.

"Frankly, I have ceased to understand you," he said, "though I came from England myself. At times you are too cautious to live; at others, you take the most insane chances. Buying land without looking at it because you trust a man's face or like his sales talk, or simply because you won't spend the money to inquire."

He shrugged his shoulders, then began more gently. He pointed through the window to the north, where prospecting was now in full swing. He mentioned the new gold finds in British Columbia and Quebec; the recent discovery of radium-bearing pitch-blende near Great Bear Lake. After thinking for a minute he smiled rather wearily, and spoke.

"It Is Just Too Bad"

"It is just too bad you won't come in with us. We want you. We want to keep our coming prosperity in the family. But we have our own ideas of how a business should be run. They suit our conditions, and we fail to see why we should take orders from London."

I am afraid there is no doubt whatever that Canada sees us through the small end of the telescope. While we speak glibly about Empire, they are trying desperately to hold us to them. That is, those who were born in England and some of those who fought with us. A large number of the others have forgotten us altogether.

It is not that they want to split; not that they would do anything active about it; not even that they are looking to the United States any way but financially.

It is just that they are tired of the attitude which caused the English business man to send trade catalogues to South America marked in pounds, shillings, and pence and written in English.

DO you ever suffer from Head-ache, Cough, Cold, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout, Sore-throat, Toothache, or Asthma? If you do, will you allow us to solve the question of securing a cure, of course, a permanent one, and put an end to these dreadful enemies of humanity? Or do you like to be handicapped in society, in business or in your daily association with your strong, stout friends? For your own good, we would strongly advise you to have an open mind and to make use of what you can call your true companion, instead of waiting for the time when you are attacked by disease, the youngest daughter of Mr. Fortune, Miss Fortune. When you are living and enjoying the gifts of nature, this unseen thief creeps into your system, and runs you physically and mentally. Our preparation THE TIGER BALM, which has nothing to do with animal fat, or any injurious substance, will safeguard your interest. ### MAGAZINES LEFT UNGUARDED.

Two Contractors Fined
$25 Each.

Two Chinese contractors were fined $25 each at the Central Police Court this morning for failing to provide watchmen at dynamite magazines on the hillside at Stanley.

In the first case against the Hop Hing Company, the defendant said that the watchman had just gone to take his food at the time the police officer visited the magazine. Mr. Hamilton, the Magistrate, pointed out that a substitute should have been provided for such a case.

In the second instance, the defendant said that he was only away for an hour.

The prosecuting officer pointed out the necessity of providing a guard over the magazines against theft, especially by fishing people, who used the dynamite to catch fish.
